TASTING NOTES

Producer notes

"As is the case as regards all of our crèmes de cassis (blackcurrant creams), for our Dijon Crème de Cassis we use the most prestigious blackcurrant variety: the Noir de Bourgogne variety. The berries we use are harvested exclusively in the Côte d'Or department in Burgundy. The blackcurrant berries are macerated in a water and alcohol solution for about 10 weeks, in order that all of their flavours are extracted from them. The alcohol-containing juice thus obtained is called 'infusion'. This infusion is the basic ingredient which goes into crème de cassis, to which we add white sugar. Our Crème de Cassis de Dijon is our top-of-the-range blackcurrant cream due to its high blackcurrant content."
