TASTING NOTES

Winery notes (2023 Vintage)

"Able clone. The basis of this wine is the synergy between alcoholic and carbonic fermentation. Carbonic fermentation (think Beaujolais) achieves the lifted aromas of maraschino cherry, clove. The synergy creates a lovely silky, supple texture. Mineral. Cherry. Sweet salty licorice. Raspberry. Soft tannin. Brooding."

92/100 Kasia Sobiesiak, The Wine Front, July 2024 (2022 Vintage)

"Forest berries, mossy wood, fresh mountain herbs, all in all savoury, sandy texture, light in a way but refreshing, slightly meaty and pushing that wet forest floor vibe far and well. Very nice drop. All is brighter now."

93/100 David Walker Bell, WineFolio.co.nz, December 2024 (2022 Vintage)

"A wine from this small producer in North Canterbury – made from Abel clone Pinot Noir. There is a touch of carbonic fermentation and whole bunch character here, with raspberry, cloves, cotton candy, liquorice, pickled cherries and orange peel in a vibrant and exotic perfume. Light on its feet, but building through the palate. More cherry flavour through the middle., and the tannin is long, fine and a touch prickly. Finishes with a chinotto dryness that contrasts well with the bloodiness of the fruit."

93/100 Mike Bennie, The Wine Front, June 2022 (2020 Vintage)

"This is sappy and tense, fresh and lively. Sour cherry, pomegranate juice, a bit of clove spice here. Washes around the palate nicely, some grippy webs of tannin, a bright, lightly amaro-tinged finish. Feels refreshing and kinda elegant. Has some good mojo. Great drinking, is the easy take away message."

93/100 Jane Skilton MW, Wine Magazine, October 2022 (2020 Vintage)

"Plenty of whole cluster fruit has given this vividly fruited wine a real lift on the nose with lavender florals sitting alongside dark berry fruit. Edgy and bold with a lovely crunchy spine of acid."
