TASTING NOTES

Floral and spicy take on this much-loved variety (Pinot Noir). Fresh, juicy, uncomplicated style that makes for a very refreshing expression. Fantastic value.

Of all the regions in Italy, the Veneto and Friuli (which were one and the same until WWI) are ground zero for Pinot Noir, or as it's known in Italy, Pinot Nero. Historical relationships between the royal houses of Austria and France led to many international grape varieties being planted in northern Italy.

Cantina Riondo, now Collis Heritage and one of Veneto's largest producers, offers this wine that provides serious bang for the buck. Even here in Aotearoa New Zealand, where Pinot is king and there's no shortage of entry-level options, it would be hard to find such a classy and generous example at this price. On the nose, it features lush berry fruit, juniper, woody spice, and vanilla. The palate is opulent and well-balanced.
