TASTING NOTES

Chateau Laubes is located in the tiny commune of Escoussans, near Cadillac, on the right bank of the Garonne. The Chateau takes its name from the first feudal lords who lived there in the 12th Century.

The vineyard is spread over the south and southwest-facing hillsides overlooking the Garonne, making the most of the sunshine and the good soil drainage. The various plots benefit from the variety of soil conditions on these hillsides, giving the wine all its personality.

Producing tiny quantities and offering real value for money, this classic blend of 50% Merlot and 50% Cabernet Sauvignon has got the lot. The wine is fruity with just the right amount of tannic structure. It has spice and some firm toasty wood flavours in the background.
