TASTING NOTES

Rated 98/100 by Luca Maroni - Leading Italian wine critic

One of the great discoveries of recent years for many red wine lovers has been the rich, luscious reds from Italy's south... Well, we have another great discovery for you to make with the arrival of another beauty from Coppiere. (We know how many of you loved the Coppiere Primitivo we featured a while back and are sure you'll love this as well)

This is a blend of the now familiar Primitivo and the relatively rare and ancient Susumaniello, a variety which adds an extra dimension of dark fruits to the wine.

Whilst a score of 98/100 from Italy's Luca Maroni may seem excessive for such a modestly priced wine, we know that this is exactly the style of wine that has become such a winner with not only Luca Maroni, but with wine lovers around the world.

A dark colour, smooth and warmly mouthfilling, evoking visions of sitting around the BBQ table enjoying relaxing times. It is a style so easy to enjoy, but has the complexity to satisfy.
