TASTING NOTES

Good Muscadet must be one of France's most undervalued wines. This is from Domaine de la Pépière, a small, quality-focused producer farming organically and making characterful wines of place. If you're a fan of Chablis and similarly mineral styles of white, then this will spin your wheels. It's seriously driven and fresh, with a gentle, creamy texture that comes from aging on lees. It's just asking for Oysters, so get shucking.
