TASTING NOTES

A Languedoc Pinot Noir? Well, the grapes are grown at an altitude which gives great balance and freshness to the ripe fruit. We picked up a lovely nose of dark and red fruits leading to a very drinkable, full-bodied yet fresh palate.

Winery notes (2025 Vintage)
"Pinot is a grape renwned for its elegance and character. This cuvée, crafted from vineyards located at 220 meters above sea level, beautifully combines the freshness, finesse, and fruit-driven profile of Pinot with the richness and complexity of Languedoc wines."

93/100 CampbellMattinson.com, April 2026 (2025 Vintage)
"This wine is about as drinkable and enjoyable as they come. It’s cherried and ripe and savoury-spicy and nutty at once, and it has long, elegant fingers of tannin, which gives it excellent shape. There’s a lot to love here. It basically tastes of cherries red and black with nut, earth and aromatic herb notes tossed through; all of which makes for delicious drinking."

Note, this is under screwcap rather than cork as pictured.*
