TASTING NOTES

Winery notes (2025 Vintage)
"MacMuir always has a distinctive nose: darker fruits, with leaf hints and a touch of forest floor. On the palate there is the immediate impact of MacMuir muscle, a solid authority rather than aggression, eventually revealing its subdued powerful core. While there is copious tannin, it is wonderfully fine, adding a note of suavity to what might otherwise be an expression of strength. An impeccable finish, long and pure."

Rated Outstanding & 97/100 Cameron Douglas MS, August 2026 (2025 Vintage)
"I have many favourite Pinot Noir from around NZ and beyond, this wine and style has always been on my list. A wine of savoury elegance and power, velvet tannins and a powerful-sweet acid line that will collectively age this wine well along with a concentration of fruit and voices that speak to site and the earthy layers that release over time. A mix of dark berries and plums, dried herb and sage, rosemary and hay. Delicious, lengthy and well made with best drinking from 2032 through 2042+."

95+/100 Gary Walsh, The Wine Front, August 2026 (2024 Vintage)

"Dark cherry, dried raspberry, earth, a sort of exotic five spice thing happening, almost to liquorice in that way too, some classic Otago notes of rosemary and sage, and iron filings (don’t mind me). It’s kind of a muscular wine, but not without freshness and a certain sappy energy, tannin has a fine stony feel, and the finish is long and nutty with a powdery grip. Charismatic and very good. Felton Road are in great form in 2025."
