TASTING NOTES

Nestled deep in the foothills of the Cévennes mountains, the Terrasses du Larzac appellation is one of the Languedoc's hidden treasures. The Larzac plateau, essentially the southern end of the Massif Central mountains, is an area whose name remains relatively unknown to most of the earth's population, yet conjures up much in the mind of the French. Given its remoteness and sparse population, the Larzac became the place to be in the 1970s for the "back-to-earth" movement in France.

Very intense nose with notes of blackberry, blackcurrant, enriched with spicy and vanilla aromas. Silky smooth palate, with notes of black fruit (morello cherries) and spices. Can be drunk with a rich variety of dishes. It goes well with red meats and cheeses.
