TASTING NOTES

drinksbiz Magazine, October 2020

"Established in 2005, Lighthouse Gin was one of the first distillers on New Zealand's now burgeoning craft distillery scene. It takes its name from the Cape Palliser lighthouse on the southernmost tip of the North Island and is produced in Martinborough.

A stronger expression of the original Lighthouse Gin, at a higher 57% ABV. The more intense botanical character makes it ideal for classic cocktails."
