TASTING NOTES

The Malfy distillery is in the Piedmontese town of Moncalieri in Italy. Established in 1906, Torino Distillati is run by the Vergnano family. Malfy is known for its use of coastal grown Italian lemons in its distillations.

Distillery notes

"Italian Juniper, 5 botanicals cut with Italian Spring Water. Carlo Vergnano and Beppe Ronco, the distillers of Malfy Gin, are fervent Alpinists. On a climb up to the top of Monviso (visible from the distillery), they were inspired by the wild juniper, the pure spring water and the amazing colours of the mountain lakes. Malfy Gin Originale is distilled with Juniper, Coriander and five other botanicals. It is blended with pure spring water from the nearby Monviso mountain - the highest altitude source of any spring in Italy. The base of the bottle is inspired of the mountain lakes and the label colours reflect the snow capped peak."

drinksbiz Magazine, October 2020

"Aromas of juniper, coriander and anise lead to a crisp, dry palate with complex flavours of juniper, liquorice and a hint of citrus."
