TASTING NOTES

Winery notes (2022 Vintage)

"Green lemon hue. A complex nose of minerals, flint, lemons, and limes. The palate is taut yet rich, with concentrated flavors reminiscent of lime and sapphire. Fine, compact phenolics frame the wine and drive a long, mineral finish. This wine always reminds me of line and length—like train tracks stretching into the distance.

Planted between 2000-2002 at 11,111 vines/ha and a second planting in 2018, farmed biodynamically from inception. This unique, south-east facing site has varied soils, graduating from top to bottom on the slope, through primarily shallow (10-15cm) glauconitic clays over well drained limestone.

Crushed and soaked for 4 hours prior to pressing. Wild ferment, in aged French oak barrels. 12 months on lees in barrel, then aged on light lees for 5 months in stainless steel prior to bottling unfiltered and unfiltered in September 2023."

"Expansive, succulent white of depth and concentration with pretty lift and complexity from jasmine florals, warm straw, hazelnut and button mushroom savouriness amongst the mandarin, ginger, lime, green apple going on. The supple flow stretches luxuriously through the palate and finishes with a light, building chalky pucker. It's such a chilled out white, but so much is going on. And gosh it drinks beautifully."

95/100 Rebecca Gibb MW, Vinous, April 2024 (2022 Vintage)

"If the Field of Fire were a person, it wouldn't suffer fools gladly. The 2022 Chardonnay is a concentrated, direct and firm wine that knows where it's going and does so with a firm grip on your mouth. Focused, full of drive, it has sinew and sapidity. It is richly fruited - reminiscent of apricots alongside juicy lemon as well as toasted pine nuts, oats and flint. However, its quality is not in its flavours but its texture and power. Where I'm from, we say, 'Shy brains got nowt' and this isn't shy."

94/100 Erin Larkin, RobertParker.com, December 2024 (2022 Vintage)

"The 2022 Field Of Fire Chardonnay leads with an ultra pretty nose: white waxy flowers, lemon oil, sherbet, green soft leaf herbs and shaved fennel. In the mouth, the wine has considerable race and pace yet remains restrained and measured in its attack. This is a very smart wine; it's angular in all the right ways and complex to the end."
