TASTING NOTES

A value sweet spot for incredible Barossa Shiraz from a cult producer. Seen as the baby brother to the outstanding La Maline, this 'black beast' is deep, dark, and complex, and offers much of the great wine's power and dimension. A richly satisfying and harmonious food wine for the price, the Bete Noir is exceptional.

95/100 Dave Brooks, James Halliday's Wine Companion (2020 Vintage)

"Pete Schell's Bête Noir is a shiraz composition from a number of Barossa parishes: Barossa, Moppa, Moculta, Eden Valley, High Eden, Bethany and the Eastern Foothills, usually around 35% whole bunches and aged in a range of French oak formats for 20 months. There is a beautifully pure, stony sense of calm and detail to this wine, with composed blackberry and cherry fruits, deep spice and meaty facets. It has brightness and clarity, not at the expense of fruit depth. Bright acidity provides the pulse and tannins akin to powdered granite give savoury support. It's great drinking."
